Phil,

We have conferred with our client and agree to re-designating the identities of Investor C and Customer A to "Confidential" under the terms of the protective order.

Insofar as your emails suggest otherwise, we do not view this re-designation as required by the parties' agreement as memorialized in recently filed JSR. Instead, we take your point that disclosure on these terms will facilitate the exchange of discovery. Accordingly, we expect this disclosure will assist AnySignal in providing discovery responses and productions that are as complete as possible, in line with the parties' agreements and the court's order.

Patrick-

Please confirm we can share the identities of Customer A and Investor C with AnySignal personnel. We need to be able to share that information with AnySignal personnel in order to move forward.

Regards,
Phil

Patrick-

The identity of Customer A and Investor C are fundamental to the agreement to conduct expedited discovery. How do you expect us to investigate or obtain the expedited discovery from AnySignal when we can't identify Customer A or Investor C to anyone at the company? How will AnySignal answer written deposition questions about Customer A or Investor C without their identities?

CesiumAstro cannot reasonably expect AnySignal to move forward with any of the expedited discovery without sharing the identity of Customer A and Investor C with personnel at AnySignal. We ask that your client reconsider this position.

Regards,
Phil

Phil,

I'm not sure I understand your request. As I noted, this sensitive information is designated AEO. Consistent with that designation and paragraph 2(a) of the protective order, this information may not be shared with personnel at AnySignal.

Phil, Adam,

Pursuant to paragraph 9 of the JSR we filed last week (ECF No. 22), Investor C's identity is Lavrock Ventures and Customer A's identity is Vast. This information is designated Attorneys Eyes Only under the protective order and must be treated as such.
